WHO SHOULD ATTEND

This program is targeted to lawyers who want to explore and strengthen effective writing skills. Legal support staff may also attend.

FACILITATOR

Dr. Allison Fieldberg BA, LLB, BEd, MA, PhD

Legal Education Society of Alberta | Edmonton

Dr. Allison Fieldberg received her PhD in English literature in 2012 from the University of Alberta. She also holds a Bachelor of Laws (University of Victoria) and a Bachelor of Education (University of Calgary).

Since 2004, Dr. Fieldberg has taught literature studies, essay composition, and English language arts. Most recently, she was a full-time essay composition and literary studies instructor at MacEwan University (Edmonton), the University of Alberta (Edmonton), and The King's University (Edmonton). She has presented at academic conferences across North America and publishes on the intersection between public health policy and legal reform in nineteenth-century England. In addition to teaching at the post-secondary level, Dr. Fieldberg has coached lawyers in effective writing skills and edited a variety of legal publications. She is Chair of the Alberta United World College Scholarship Committee and is the recipient of a Joseph Armand Bombardier Canada Graduate Doctoral Scholarship.

Effective Legal Writing

Limited Enrolment

Effective writing in legal settings is critical for success. Explore how to write with greater clarity and concision. Evaluate your current writing strategies in this hands-on, interactive program. Examine effective and less-than-effective legal writing, and improve general and situation-specific writing.

This program uses a flipped-classroom format. Attendees must review resource materials and undertake pre-program work online in the LESA Classroom prior to attending.

Learn how to:

- Write for a target audience.
- Organize sentences and paragraphs for maximum impact.
- Avoid jargon and legalese.
- Develop graphic organizers.
- Revise your writing.

Review grammar topics relevant to legal writing, including active versus passive voice, present versus past tense, consistent versus inconsistent verb use, and much more.

This program is designed to meet participants' specific learning interests and needs. Attend the program prepared to review, revise, and reflect on both your own and your colleagues' writing.
